SALEM PLAYERS CLUB

The Salem Players club, which met with so much success in offering its first stage production a few nights ago, has provided something more than just an outlet for the aspirations of amateur Thespians of Salem. In doing that, it serves a good purpose, but it becomes a definite community asset in providing another activity for wholesome entertainment and a moulding of community interests. Only a few can participate in such an activity, but hundreds of others are interested and eager to see it succeed.

Any enterprise which serves to bind a community closer together deserves the support which the Players club received on its initial venture. It may be taken for granted, also, that this public support will not wane, for so much hidden talent was revealed in the first performance that the next play is eagerly awaited. A great deal of effort goes with such an undertaking, but the players and their aides find it a lot of fun and so the public benefits because they are willing to study and work. This club already has given ample reason to expect that it will become a fixture in the community life of Salem.

HOT TODDY

The liquor industry's wartime troubles now are official, with a full-blown congressional investigation about to give them a public airing.

Whatever the investigators may turn up, it is plain that the root of the industry's trouble is the law of supply and demand. Confronted with the greatest demand in its history in this country, the industry is simultaneously confronted with the problem of a rapidly dwindling supply which cannot be replaced by new manufacture because of the government's decision to tie up all distilling equipment for production of industrial alcohol. The consequences could have been foreseen; perhaps they were foreseen. Finally, they have become sufficiently disturbing to warrant congressional questioning.

The most useful thing the senatorial investigators could do at the outset would be to make it perfectly plain that they are going to stay inside their field of authority, which would limit them to matters dealing with existing law and the liquor industry's operation in relation to those laws. It is not their job to make a scarce commodity less scarce, which may be the popular idea of the investigation's purpose.

SHADOW OF A DOUBT

In an article written for OWI to express her personal views on peace aims, Eleanor Roosevelt lists, among other things, a common language "so that no matter where one finds oneself in the future, it will be possible for individuals to exchange ideas and suspicion need never exist."

Necessity, it may be imagined, will continue to spur man's ingenuity in the matter of exchanging ideas. One thinks of thousands of Pacific Islanders who are learning how to understand Americans at this moment, and vice versa. One thinks of what is going on wherever civilized men have carried their war to remote places. One thinks of Algiers, where observers say the French are beginning to be irritated by American troops. And of Guadalcanal, where English-speaking Japanese addressed United States marines in their vernacular. Also of Norway, where Norwegian-speaking German fifth columnists helped in the invasion.

The possibility of a common language creates a new horizon, but it also creates some doubts. The United States and Britain have a common language, and it has been of inestimable value in the free exchange of ideas. But it has not routed out suspicion. Perhaps if the whole world had a common language, it would be reserved exclusively for manifestations of goodwill, in which event Mrs. Roosevelt would be the first to discard all other tongues.

NO SURE CURE

In the debate in congress on farm price subsidies, a dangerous illusion will be presented to the American public.

The Roosevelt administration takes the position that unless subsidies are authorized, the result will be runaway inflation. Subsidies will be proposed as the alternative to inflation.

Subsidy opponents claim that unless the proposal is defeated, the result will be an acute shortage of foodstuffs. They will argue that the alternative to subsidies is not inflation, but a satisfactory condition for agriculture, with no unfavorable effects for anyone else.

Neither side will admit what obviously is the truth—that subsidies are not going to halt wartime inflation and that the lack of subsidies is not going to solve that problem, either. In their mutual fervor for beating down the other side's argument, they inevitably will mislead the public into believing in sure cures when no sure cures exist.

Meanwhile, the salient point of the farm price subsidy issue continues to be neglected. It cannot be proved by anything in national experience that the net effect of paying farm price subsidies out of public funds for the sake of holding the line against inflation would be anything but that much added to the public cost of the war; the line will continue to yield as it has been yielding whenever it becomes more expedient as public policy to fall back than to stand pat.

THE STARS SAY:

For Friday, November 19.

CLEVER THINKING and ingenuity with swift grasp of unusual openings for progress and advancement should yield surprising and unforeseen returns. But it will be as well to pursue a policy and stratagem of going it alone, since the endorsement or support of superiors, employers or those in high places may be withheld, although relatives or family elders may be kindly disposed. Also there is a chance for loss of funds or credit, either through bad judgment, unwise outlay or extravagance. Decisive action and thrift should win out.

Those whose birthday it is should be ready to decisively take advantage of a sudden and unforeseen opportunity for advancement and financial gain by the use of clever, shrewd and ingenious thought and action, in which it is advisable the individual effort be brought to bear on strange or extraordinary situations. Family elders or relatives may be kindly disposed even to the extent of bequest or inheritance. Take no injudicious risks and refrain from extravagance or prodigality with funds.

A child born on this day should have exceptional creative talents, backed up by energy, stability of character and industry, winning popularity and success in an exceptional occupation.

Looking at Life

The thing that struck me most forcibly about that recent reunion of a brother and sister who hadn't seen each other for forty years, wasn't the touching scene when they kissed and embraced.

It was that the sister, on looking at her brother, said:

"These ears. Now I'm sure you're my brother. I've been wondering all these years where my child got those big ears!"

The brother grinned, said the newspaper story, and replied:

"I guess it runs in the family. My youngsters have 'em, too."

He grinned, yes. But I wonder whether he grinned inside.

And I wonder whether it wouldn't be ever so much better if families weren't quite so outspoken and frank with each other.

If you met a stranger, you wouldn't tell him about his big ears, would you?

Why should you be less courteous to your own than to some person who doesn't mean nearly as much to you?

Do you think your brother or your sister or your uncle or your niece are less sensitive than a stranger? Do you think that your wife or your husband resent a slur or a slighting remark any less than the butcher or the secretary or the salesman?

I believe that many family quarrels are caused by just that lack of consideration.

Youngsters who left home have told me that their parents didn't understand them, that they weren't appreciated.

It's easy enough to censure and criticize.

Anybody can say don't do this, don't do that. Praise occasionally. Don't just carp when something goes wrong. Appreciation breeds incentive. Incentive breeds happiness.

Happiness can exist only where there is peace and contentment.

I hate to see a mother slap a child. It's cowardice and definite proof of stupidity.

She doesn't know how to correct, so she resorts to force. And force has never yet improved anybody or anything.

That sister probably didn't mean a thing by poking fun at her brother's big ears.

But I wonder whether it didn't take much of the sweetness out of the reunion.

The next time you open your mouth for a careless remark, won't you first make sure that it may not be poison that comes out of it?

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Relation of Face to Shape of Teeth

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
I AM surprised and pleased to have an eminent dental authority come out in the open and state a proposal that I have long held.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Every time I expressed my opinion, however, all the dentists and teeth straighteners jumped on me so that I thought I must be wrong. Now I have, I am happy to say, some backing.

The gentleman who says this is Dr. Lehman Wendell, of Minneapolis, and he calls his article "A Prejudice To Be Shed."

Fredrich the Great once said—"the greatest and noblest pleasure that we can have in this world is to discover new truths; and the next is to shake off old prejudices."

Dr. Wendell's Opinion
We have been told so long that the teeth determine the shape of the face, and make for better functional action that few men in the street would deny it.

But here is what Dr. Wendell says: "One of the most preposterous of our prejudices is the theory which claims that the shape of the face determines the decision as to the shape of the artificial teeth. Thus a patient with a square face should be given square teeth; an oval face requires oval teeth; and a tapering face tapering teeth."

The whole theory is sheer speculation and thoroughly unscientific and it will not bear analysis.

In a group of dentists an advocate of this theory brought forward a group of patients. He said he had already made up his mind what kind of faces each had and also what kind of teeth he was going to give them, but he would like his friends to look the group over and confirm his opinions.

It may be admitted that not all would agree on the size and hue of the teeth selected, but certainly they ought to come somewhere close to deciding whether the face was oval, square or tapering. Each man was to write down his opinion on a piece of paper. There was no agreement at all. Some pronounced a face oval, some square and some tapering. And they were all the same faces.

Leave Teeth Alone

Here is another feature of the situation. I know a man of about fifty who has a jolly round face. I think everybody would agree it was round. His teeth, which are almost intact, look perfectly swell in that face. Yet when I first knew him thirty odd years ago he had a thin tapering face. He was cadaverous and, as I remember it, his teeth then fit his face all right then and looked perfectly all right.

Now suppose that when he was young and thin and cadaverous they had started to make him over and began some engineering work on his teeth, how would he have looked when he was the age he is now?

Of course bad placement of teeth, whether they are square, oval or tapering will spoil any face. But too much monkeying has certainly changed many a nice looking girl or boy into a pretty lopsided specimen.

Let your teeth alone—at least when you are young.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th St., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

How Dogs May Play Part In Program For Defense

Contributions to the fund for training dogs for defense, made by owners of canines who are "4-F's" will bring those dogs which are too small to "fight", a part in the war.

The Dogs for Defense program, which trains canines for various duties with the armed forces, is costly and officers have mapped a program whereby owners "buy" their dogs a rank in the canine army. Enrollment forms and payments should be made to the War Dog Fund, 250 Park Ave., New York. A certificate denoting the dog's rank in the fund and a tag showing it is a member will be sent when the dog has been enlisted.

Wade Allen, 420 W. Fifth St., is local chairman of the Dogs for Defense program and will supply owners with information on the fund.

CHAPTER THIRTY-EIGHT

Well, now, you've done a real good job, Romy. I don't blame you for thinking you got a case. But I'm not sure Lex Calvin's going to rest the Commodore's wife yet. "But she's the murderer!" I protested. "Looks like it and again it don't." Romy lifted the gloves with a pair of forceps. "These are awful big for that little woman. It don't quite fit."

"You're going to leave that homicidal mania running loose?" I asked. "Just because Commodore Knowlton's an influential citizen?"

"Stop right there!" Romy grinned. "I'm telling you confidentially that the Knowltons are going to be sorted from now on. O'Toole's stationed at Rockledge. The old lady was here early this afternoon. She asked us to take the Commodore into custody or give her a guard. Sound as if she believed the Commodore had killed that red setter and Pete and Henry too. Said the Commodore knew the day of reckoning had come when they saw that dog, because it wasn't a ghost, it was one of Red Ruffus' sons. And who'd own him but a ghost out of Hank's past? A ghosted sensible in a crazy kind of way. Not as crazy as her saying Henry was their grandchild! Hank's daughter."

"Great-grandchild," I corrected automatically.

Romy smiled and pulled his earlobe.

"I mean if she were Hank's daughter, she'd be the Commodore's great-granddaughter." I had to keep faith with Pam, so I turned to another topic. "But don't you see how dangerous Mrs. Knowlton is? She even accusing her husband—"

"She says he hates her for making him disown Hank and his child," Romy related. "She says she's scared. She don't seem to want to die, though it's hard to figure what she has to live for."

"What about that bloodstained handkerchief marked 'Flo'? And her bag? Both of them were found in Pete Everard's car after he was murdered."

"It still don't jell. If Mrs. K. left her bag and her handkerchief in Pete's car, why did she hide her purse and a pair of gloves big enough for the Commodore in the woods? You gave me the notion she was surprised to see her purse and expected to find the hundred dollars in it; so maybe all them clues was plants; maybe someone wanted to make it look like the old lady did it. If the Commodore wants to get rid of her that's one way."

"Then you're going to go right on doing nothing!" I said furiously.

The veteran detective pulled his ear lobe in growing confusion.

"Don't you go getting mad at me. You've done a swell job. Now it's my turn. I've got a reason for wanting Mrs. Knowlton to go on rambling around unmolested for a while. I'm not so sure of anything since that night Greg Mason spent rummaging around his sister's incinerator."

Romy paused, then murmured, "You've been kinda uneasy yourself since then, haven't you, sister?"

"Kind of," I said, "then wondered how he knew Greg had been at Nancy's."

"Mason's in the clear," Romy offered unexpectedly. "Mr. Drummond saw the lights in the Everard house that night; he went over and investigated. Him and O'Toole and me took turns watching the place. Greg never left it. The State's Attorney and I was over there putting the bee on Mason from nine a. m. till Jack caught his eleven o'clock train for Vermont. Him and Greg are both awful set on proving Mrs. E. didn't have any part in finishing off her husband."

"You're proving who couldn't be our murderer. How about proving who can?" I asked.

"Would I like to! But it still don't jell," Romy acknowledged. "We can't figure out the why and wherefore of these killings. And that's what we got to do if we aim to stop the next murder—"

"Another? What are police for?" I protested.

"I sometimes wonder. Up to now we got enough facts for one of the Information. Please guys, but we can't put 'em together. About all we can do is try to make our murderer think we're as dumb as you think we are—"

I got to my feet with a sense of frustration. "You mean you're going to let her smash one more victim in the hope that you'll be around to see it happen next time she strikes?"

"Her or him," Romy said. "Sorry, Miss Glenn, but we ain't making any more arrests just now. We'll keep Tony under lock and key. I'll keep my eye on your aunt and sister."

"I'm not placing too much confidence in you," I frowned. "It's our Jap's day off tomorrow and Josephine's day in, or I wouldn't dare go off to New York and leave my family here for murder bait."

"Don't worry," Romy said. "And if you see that Riorden fellow in New York give him my best. Tell him I got a handful of beads and they ain't all a rolling any more; I've got a couple of 'em on the string. All I need is one or two more."

"That's all I need," he added pensively, "to get me a police captaincy and a good enough salary so's I can marry, maybe."

"I wish you luck," I said bitterly. "You'll need it."

Thursday arrived in an under-slung chariot of black clouds. The morning developed into a scowling menace that seemed waiting to pounce. He had a murderer roaming at large in Havenhurst. Mrs. Knowlton was flitting through the woods unchecked.

The police of our community seemed given to brushing everything aside. Romy had practically acknowledged that all he could do was wait and try to catch the murderer in the act. In flagrante delicto.

One could only hope bitterly that it would be before—not after—another death by violence at Havenhurst-on-Sound.

I did not want to go to New York. I felt as if I were deserting Aunt Carrie and Peggy, leaving them alone to cope with the homicidal epidemic which the police were treating as if it were a fever that had to run its course.

When I came down to an eight-

Higgins said there was a woman who kept phoning the Commodore after Hank was drowned.

Hank.... Hank Knowlton hadn't been drowned. He'd committed suicide. Hank had more fun than he could pay for, so he killed himself. That was murder, too, and murder might run in families. "More fun than he could pay for." Who had said that? Mrs. Higgins. She'd said it bitterly. Why should she be bitter about Hank's fun? What would she call fun?

That sinister little question woke me out of my half-dreaming state. Once I put my mind to the question, it wasn't hard to get at a possible answer: Mrs. Higgins had a daughter.

Isabel.... Mrs. Jerry O'Toole. Even now she was pretty in a way. Ten years ago she must have been lovely. Fun for Hank. Fair game perhaps? Suppose Isabel and Hank had been lovers? Mrs. Knowlton would have been as ruthless about the cook's daughter as the Commodore had been about my parents.

Mrs. Knowlton.... Always Mrs. Knowlton. I kept getting back to the old lady of Rockledge.

Now Isabel Higgins O'Toole was married to a young police sergeant. Quite a come-down from the Knowlton millions. How Mrs. Higgins would hate the Commodore's wife for interfering with Isabel's romance with Hank! How she'd hate Pam for marrying Hank! How she'd hate Henry!

Then a forgotten fact about the bloodstained chignon handkerchief marked "Flo" came floating down the stream of my consciousness. Mrs. Higgins claimed Isabel had found it tucked away in her young husband's pocket, and that Sergeant O'Toole had found it under the leather cushions of Pete Everard's car.... Had the sergeant turned it in as evidence? As a matter of fact, had he found it in Pete's car? Or had he discovered it—in his pocket?

12 Quarts Whiskey For Everyone, Says Senator Scrugham

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Senator Scrugham (D-Nev.), whose resolution set off the senate's current investigation of liquor supplies, asserted today there is enough whisky in bonded warehouses to provide every American citizen with more than 12 quarts apiece.

Asserting the rate of withdrawal from warehouses has dropped by half since last year, Scrugham said internal revenue officials told him the bonded stocks stand roughly at 400,000,000 gallons.

There is no way of telling, he added, how much will be sold straight and how much will be blended with neutral spirits and coloring matter for sale under new brand names.

Senator Overton (D-La.) said if analysis of such blends showed them to be deleterious the Pure Food and Drug act should be invoked.

Overton, a bystander in the investigation, suggested additional whisky could be pried loose by cutting in half the present eight-year period in which liquor may be held untaxed in bond, and applying the stiffly graduated tax for each extra month it is held.

Scrugham and Chairman George of the senate finance committee likewise thought taxes might be the key to the scarcity problem, which the Office of Price Administration said was complicated by a growing "gangster element."

OPA officials said they were working secretly on a program designed to combat hijacking and illegal trafficking in liquor.

Senator Wherry (R-Neb.) meanwhile was offered the place on the five-man investigating committee which was declined by Senator Danaher (R-Conn.). Other members are Senators Van Nuys (D-Ind.), chairman, and Ferguson (R-Mich.), Murdock (D-Nev.) and Kilgore (D-W. Va.).

They start public hearings next week. The liquor industry announced through Owsley Brown, president of the Distilled Spirits Institute, that it welcomes the investigation.

PROTECT YOUR HOME FROM TUBERCULOSIS

BUY and USE Christmas Seals

The seal sale is held in conjunction with the nationwide sale and will continue until Christmas.

This year, for the first time, the seal of the American tuberculosis associations is being used by the national tuberculosis organizations of England, Canada, Mexico and Brazil to raise funds for their respective campaigns against the disease.

The use of the identical Christmas Seal by five of the United Nations is particularly significant in the face of the wartime rise in tuberculosis that is occurring in many parts of the world.

Washington Round-up

News and Views, Briefly
On What's Going On In Capital

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Congress today hears from Cordell Hull—Tennessee farmer's son, diplomat's diplomat and generally regarded as Capital Hill as a statesman-hero.

The 72-year-old state secretary steps into the house as the first cabinet member ever to address a joint session of Congress, and to give the nation's lawmakers his own account of the meeting of the minds at Moscow.

Hull had not turned 20 when he first began his long of amicable international relations.

Now—acclaimed as the hand that brought the United States, Great Britain, Russia and China out of a reported muddle of differences into accord on war and post-war plans—he is expected to reiterate his beliefs the grave problems facing the world can be solved through international collaboration.

LOTS OF WHISKY

Senator Scrugham (D., Nev.) says there's enough whisky in bonded warehouses to provide every American citizen with at least 12 quarts. Each quart supplies 16 drinks. Scrugham—who sponsored a resolution which started the senate's current investigation of liquor supplies—offered the 12-quart estimate as the opening gun in the inquiry aimed at finding out why retail liquor stores have little or no whisky on hand.

TREASURY TAX DEMANDS

Neither the house nor the senate tax committee chairman expects Congress to grant the Treasury any more tax revenue than provided for in the $2,142,000,000 bill due to come up in the house next week. They draw upon adages to emphasize their point. Says Gen. George (D., Ga.) of the finance committee: "They'll be coming to a goat's house for wool." Said Rep. Doughton (D., N. C.) of the house ways and means committee, last week: "You can shear a sheep once a year but you can skin him only once."

INFLATION AND SUBSIDIES

Inflation pops up again in Congress as both opponents and backers of subsidies, intended to hold retail prices down, draw upon it as a basis for their arguments. Supporters of the subsidy plan say without the federal fund payments prices will go up and inflation will be here. Opponents say the subsidies of themselves are inflationary. On Monday, the house is expected to pass a bill extending life of the Commodity Credit Corp. and prohibiting the use of subsidies. Both senate and house expect a presidential veto of the measure.

GOVERNMENT MINE OPERATION

Interior department officials were hopeful today the end was in sight for government operation of the coal mines. Wage negotiations are off to a fresh start and there appear to be no major difficulties in view.

PIGS AND PORK

Pigs—or agriculturally speaking, hogs—are going to market so fast pork will be two ration points cheaper over the butcher's counter Friday. Support prices have been guaranteed by the War Food Administration and the OPA is out to encourage pork consumption.

WMC TO DETERMINE 48-HOUR SCHEDULE

COLUMBUS, Nov. 18.—War Manpower commission area directors in industrial Ohio districts where labor shortages now exist or threaten will confer with their labor-management committees to determine by Dec. 1 whether the 48-hour minimum work week is necessary. Edward L. Keenan, Ohio WMC director, said today.

Ralph E. Geisler, Columbus area chief, announced his five counties soon would be on the minimum 48-hour schedule.

Keenan said the 48-hour week conforms to a national WMC policy where labor stringencies warrant it. This is mandatory in so-called grade 1 areas, such as the Akron district which already has adopted the schedule. In grade 2 areas, such as Columbus, the 48-hour week will be invoked on recommendation of the area director.

Other grade 2 labor areas in which 48-hour week surveys are scheduled include these counties: Allen, Auglaize, Champaign, Clark, Darke, Fairfield, Geauga, Greene, Huron, Lake, Licking, Logan, Lorain, Mahoning, Marion, Mercer, Miami, Montgomery, Ottawa, Preble, Putnam, Richland, Sandusky, Shelby, Stark, Trumbull and Van Wert.

The sequoia trees of California are thought to be the oldest living things. Some are estimated to be 4,000 years old.

CANCER RISE TOPPED POPULATION GROWTH

CINCINNATI, Nov. 18.—A Navy doctor said today that with a population jump of only seven per cent between 1930 and 1940, deaths from cancer during that period increased by 35 per cent.

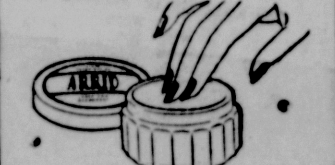

Commander Edward L. Bortz, of Philadelphia, told the Southern Medical association that in 1941, 21 veterans from the First World War entered various veterans' hospitals each day of the year with a diagnosis of cancer, and added, if the same tendency continues, "25 years from now there will be between 30,000 and 35,000 cases of cancer each year among the veterans who will seek medical care."

United Nations Plan Medical War After Armies Take Europe

(By Associated Press)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 18.—The United Nations Relief and rehabilitation administration will send life-saving teams of doctors and nurses into Europe behind the armies to fight diseases and starvation.

Dr. Thomas Parran, surgeon general of the U. S. Public Health service, said today.

Chairman of UNRRA's commission on medical care for civilians in war zones, Dr. Parran said at a press conference reports gathered from France and Poland indicated the Unrra must move rapidly to prevent a world-wide spread of epidemics. Typhus and tuberculosis already are taking thousands of lives, he said.

Personnel units which can care for groups of 10,000 people will move into any area where needed.

Dr. Parran said the entire problem would be complicated by an estimated 21,000,000 persons who would be anxious to return to their homes in the greatest migration in the history of the world. Under UNRRA plans, he said, these people will be funneled through centers where they will receive food, be checked for contagious disease, be vaccinated and quarantined, if need be.

Three Cleveland Police Inspectors Suspended

CLEVELAND, Nov. 18.—Three police deputy inspectors were suspended today and charged with neglecting their duty "in failing to stamp out places where gambling was known or suspected of being carried on."

The three are Chester I. Burnett, 52, in charge of a downtown district, and Walter Keary, 45, and Walter Wolcott, 51, who shared responsibility in a district centering around 105th st. and Euclid ave. Burnett and Wolcott today started their 25th year in the police department.

The deputy inspectors were summoned to the office of Police Chief George S. Matowitz and the formal charges were read to them, climaxing an investigation conducted by Frank D. Celebrezze, Cleveland safety director. The three pleaded innocent, and Celebrezze will conduct a hearing.

Needy Must Give Points For Ration List Gifts

CLEVELAND, Nov. 18.—Any needy family receiving a basket of food at Christmas must surrender coupons for rationed items, Charles Schreiber, Office of Price Administration's regional rationing executive, said today.

"We suggest that any group expecting to distribute baskets give the family an order for the rationed item at a convenient store, let it pick up the item, at which time the family would surrender ration points," the OPA executive for Ohio and the four neighboring states explained. "This simplifies the matter of points and abides by OPA regulations of surrendering points for rationed goods."

capable chief executives in the nation because he has rendered such signal and outstanding service in supplanting incompetency and demanding honest and faithful service.

At Cleveland, the governor announced headquarters for his campaign would be set up in Columbus "in a few weeks."

He said no campaign manager had been selected but Don Power, his former secretary, would be "very active" in the drive for the nomination. At the same time he characterized as "hogwash" speculation that Power's recent resignation indicated a split between the governor and his former law partner.

He said his address here before the National Association of Real Estate Boards expressed some of the fundamental policies and philosophies which will be stressed during the campaign. He declared against post-war deficit financing of government and said a high rate of industrial production must be continued to meet the federal debt burden.

The governor told a press conference the readjustment from war to peace could be achieved quickly and "without too much difficulty."

He said he thought government-owned war plants should be returned to private industry "as fairly and quickly as possible" although he saw this shift as a very "serious problem."

southwest where American air bases recently have been acquired.

No Enemy Interference

Although Japan has air bases in the Marshalls and Gilberts, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz reported no enemy interception encountered by the Liberators which struck Monday at Jaluit and Mill in the Marshalls and Makin in the Gilberts. The raids have followed close upon public utterances by Admiral Nimitz at Pearl Harbor that his Pacific forces soon will launch an offensive against Japan.

Rabaul's ships and planes mean the difference between victory or defeat for Japan in the fight for the northern Solomons. MacArthur's war reports since Nov. 1 have told of 21 cargo ships sunk and 29 damaged in the Rabaul area.

Rabaul, only 260 miles northwest of the American beachhead on Bougainville, also has lost heavily recently in warships and planes, prompting naval officials to speculate whether the Japanese might pull out of the New Britain stronghold.

On southern Bougainville, 100 ridges, divebombers and torpedo bombers hit Japan's Kara airfield Monday with 40 tons of bombs to keep it from being used against the beachhead at Empress Augusta bay.

Farm Bureau Head Says Independence Of Government Aid Rests With People

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Nov. 18.—Perry L. Green, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau federation, asserted today people must show they do not need federal assistance if they expect to be free of governmental controls and regulations.

In an address prepared for second day sessions of the federation's three-day convention here, Green said:

"It's becoming more apparent as time goes on that if we are going to have government controls and regulations relinquished, the people themselves must work desperately hard to have the things done which make it unnecessary for government to assume responsibility.

"If farmers are afraid of government bureaucracies, the best way to get rid of them, if that is desirable, is to let it be known that they—the farmers—are able and willing to take over the functions the bureaucracies are now performing."

Green asserted farmers themselves asked the government to perform many of the services it now operates.

Assistant Federation Secretary L. A. Taylor estimated Farm Bureau Cooperative association's business volume this year would approximate 19 million dollars, nearly double that of two years ago.

Citing additions to the association's production facilities, Taylor said in a prepared address since the last annual meeting a terminal elevator in Springfield, an alfalfa dehydrating plant at Payson and a chick hatchery in Columbus had been purchased.

"We are in the process of incorporating in the Springfield plant a soybean processing mill," he said. "Upon completion, the soybean mill will have a capacity of 60 tons of meal per day. The alfalfa dehydrating plant has a capacity of 3,000 tons per year and with the installation of additional incubators, which have been purchased for the chick hatchery, it will have a capacity of around 1,000,000 chicks a year."

He added a Cincinnati feed mill in operation 18 months "already has earned more than enough to repay the cost of the mill."

lands effectively block invasion of the Balkans via the Aegean, and Hitler dare not allow the Balkans to collapse until he has pulled his battle-line clear back into Poland past the entrance to the Balkan peninsula. (2) the blocking of the Aegean and the Dardanelles prevents the Allies from giving Russia the vast aid which would be possible if the Black sea were open to them.

Of course, even if the Aegean were clear of the enemy, the Allies still would have to get Turkey's permission before sending ships through the Dardanelles into the otherwise land-locked Black sea. One of the things that Hitler fears most is that the Turks will grant the Allies air bases, and throw the Dardanelles open to them. He hopes that his recapture of such strongholds as Leros will make Ankara stop and think before lending aid to his enemy.

Of course, access to the Dardanelles would be of use only when the Germans had been cleared out of the Aegean. However, that job can be done when the Allies tackle it in force, the present setbacks notwithstanding.

ate movement to destroy the world will be utterly crushed."

An outburst of applause greeted Hull's estimate of Premier Marshal Stalin of Russia as "one of the great statesmen and leaders of this age."

Hull's tribute to the "epic" fighting qualities of the Russian people also was cheered.

High foreign diplomats, guided by State department attaches, sat in a body on the house floor. Their wives and families watched from a special gallery section.

Hull declared "we can and will remain masters of our own fate" through cooperation with other nations likewise intent upon security.

Highlights of Hull's Address

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Highlights of Secretary of State Hull's report to Congress on the Moscow conference:

The Soviet Union, Great Britain, the United States and China have laid the foundation for cooperative effort in the post-war world toward enabling all peace-loving nations, large and small, to live in peace and security, to preserve the liberties and rights of civilized existence, and to enjoy expanded opportunities and facilities for economic, social and spiritual progress.

Each of them (the four nations) had in the past relied in varying degrees upon policies of detachment and aloofness. In Moscow, their four governments pledged themselves to carry forward to its fullest development a broad and progressive program of international cooperation.

The fruits of our victory can easily be lost unless there is among us a wholehearted acceptance of these basic principles and policies which will render impossible a repetition of our present tragedy, and unless there is promptly created machinery of action necessary to carry out these principles and policies.

As the provisions of the four-nation declaration are carried into effect, there will no longer be need for spheres of influence, for alliances, for balance of power.

The dominant thought at the conference was that, after the attainment of victory, cooperation among peace-loving nations in support of certain paramount mutual interests will be almost as compelling in importance and necessity as it is today in support of the war effort.

Important agreements were reached but there were no secret agreements, and none was suggested.

Questions relating to boundaries must by their very nature be left in abeyance until the termination of hostilities.

Willkie praised the Moscow accord reached by the United States, Great Britain, Russia and China as "a sound foundation on which we can now build" but urged that it be enlarged to permit all the United Nations to sign a declaration of intention.

"The significance of the Moscow meeting could be prevented from degenerating, as it might possibly do under certain circumstances," he said, "into a mere alliance of four powerful countries for the ruling of the world."

Churchill observed the forum was held "in the glow of one of the most cheering developments in international affairs, the Moscow conference" where he said the four great powers had pledged "to work together not only in winning the war but in building the structure of a lasting peace."

1500 "FORTS" FOR TOKYO AND BERLIN!

THE next time you pay your electric bill, remember: A large part of that money goes to blast the Axis!

Yes, over 21¢ of every dollar you turn over to us, we turn over to the federal government as taxes. For the entire electric industry, that's over 400 million dollars—enough to buy more than 1500 giant bombers—at a quarter-million each.

And that's not all! Over 7¢ per dollar in addition goes to local and state governments—for your schools, roads, police and fire protection.

Altogether from every dollar you pay us, we pass along more than 28¢ as taxes. And we do it willingly—in the face of higher costs and lower prices. Since no other electric power is federally taxed, we are often asked: "How can you manage?" Well, by business management—which means: efficiency—economy—careful planning!

Leahy And Faurot Point Football Squads For Showdown

NOTRE DAME, IOWA PRE-FLIGHT GIRD FOR BIG CLASSIC

Results of Game Will Establish One as Nation's Top-Ranking Team

By BUCKY O'CONNOR
CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—Fortunately for Frank Leahy and Leat. Don Faurot the social dictum that it's not polite to point doesn't hold true in football circles.

So the coaches of Notre Dame and the Iowa Pre-Flight Seahawks, the nation's top-ranking teams, are hard at it this week pointing their respective unbeaten and untied eleven for Saturday's showdown engagement.

The result should establish one or the other definitely as the country's greatest football team—college or service. A crowd of 50,000 is expected to watch this unofficial championship battle at Notre Dame stadium.

Have Won Eight Straight

Both teams have spotless records of eight consecutive victories. The Irish string, however, is far more impressive. It includes decisive triumphs over such front ranking teams as Georgia Tech, Michigan, Navy, Army and Northwestern while the Seahawks opposition has been of second rate variety.

Notre Dame, practically unanimous choice as the nation's No. 1 team, has rung up 312 points while holding its foes to 37.

The Seahawks, standing in No. 2 position in the latest Associated Press national poll, have trounced Illinois, Ohio State, Iowa State, Iowa, Missouri, Pitt, Rice, Wake Forest and Camp Grant. Not a first rater in the lot. The Pre-Flighters have scored 235 points against the enemy's 82.

Notes from other midwest football camps:

Michigan Tests Defense

Michigan, gunning for its first share in a conference championship since 1933, tested its defense yesterday against Ohio State plays. The Wolverines may face the Buckeyes without their star halfback, Elroy Hirsch, who was still on the sidelines with injuries.

As Coach Paul Brown brushed up State's offense, the team physician announced all players were in sound condition and able to play Saturday.

Although not disposed to understate Illinois, Northwestern's Wildcats appeared listless in their preparations for Saturday's encounter. They were unimpressive in an offensive drill. At Camp Grant, where the Bears were expected to play, Eddy Bray, Illinois' leading ball carrier, might miss the Northwestern game. He became ill Tuesday night and missed practice yesterday.

ZIVIC WILL FIGHT AT AKRON TONIGHT

Meets "Red" Doty in What May Be Fritzie's Last Ring Appearance

(By Associated Press)
AKRON, Nov. 18.—Flat-nosed Fritzie Zivic has averaged better than one ring appearance a month in his 13 years of trading punches, but he may put on the gloves for the last time tonight.

The 31-year-old former welterweight champion took his selective service screen test in Pittsburgh Sunday, and if the army accepts him there's little prospect of his returning to action after a year or two in service.

Fritzie keeps a 10-round date in Akron's armory with George "Red" Doty of Hartford, Conn., only five days after dropping a well-boiled split decision to Young Jake LaMotta in Madison Square garden. Tonight's scrap is Zivic's 16th of the year and the 175th of his long career.

The Zivic-Doty engagement, coupled with the appearance of Marine Corporal Barney Ross, Guadalcanal hero and also a former welterweight titlist, promises to produce one of Akron's biggest fight crowds in many years.

The gloves which Ross wore in winning the welterweight title from Jimmy (Baby Face) McLarnin in 1933 will be auctioned off to the highest War bond bidder.

Hunters Will Take To Fields Friday

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Nov. 18.—Ohio's major hunting season opens at 11 a. m. (Eastern Standard time) tomorrow.

Conservation Commissioner Don Waters estimated 615,000 hunting licenses would be issued, despite a wartime shortage of shotgun shells.

Waters said more than 800,000 Ohioans, including farmers and their families who may hunt on their own lands without licenses, would be on the quest of untrapped meat.

Pheasants, Hungarian partridge and ruffed grouse may be hunted through Dec. 4. Rabbits may be taken through Jan. 11.

Manchurian Chinese, Facing Starvation, Openly Defy Japs

EDITOR'S NOTE—Raymond P. Cronin was chief of the Associated Press bureau in Manila when the Japanese invaded the Philippines, and formerly headed the Columbus, O., bureau. He is now enroute home aboard the exchange liner Gripsholm after spending 21 months in an internment camp.

BY RAYMOND P. CRONIN
RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 17.—(Delayed)—Predicting one of the worst

winters in the history of Manchuria due to crop failures, reliable persons who left that region last August told me the entire country is a mass of discontent with the Chinese populace for the first time openly criticizing the Japanese.

Still grinding the Manchu people under the iron heel, the Japanese military is forcing the native police to threaten the populace like dogs.

My informants stressed the change which now finds the leading Chinese and others openly, but still guardedly, speaking about the Japanese and applying to them an epithet meaning turtle, which is similar to the basest name a man can call any man in English.

The people, utterly unarmed and unable to face the Japanese guns, speak optimistically of the day when American forces will arrive and free them from the Japanese mailed fist.

They are fully convinced America will save them from any fate that would leave them utter slaves of the Japanese.

This year's crops in Manchuria were hard hit by the lack of the usual rains in June and July. Some rain in August saved part of the parched crops but the harvest millet, the staff of life in that region, was estimated to be less than one half normal. The dry weather ruined the rice crops and almost wiped out the soybeans, wheat and corn crops.

The Japanese are shipping to Japan everything they can lay their hands on, draining the country of the essentials of life and leaving the populace to face an almost foodless winter.

To this sad picture is added the almost total lack of cloth clothing of any kind and millions, already in rags, will suffer untold hardships during the winter months in their half-naked condition. My informants agreed that thousands will die of starvation and exposure, with no relief in sight.
